

Device-As-a-Service – Client

Subscription-based hardware lifecycle management

Flexible and scalable solution – both device and service with monthly fee

Quick service and express replacement services (NBD)

Secure and environment friendly dispose at EOL.

Foxway Client DaaS is flexible and cost-efficient way to ensure that company's workers have right equipment at their disposal

Instead of investing to company owned Clients the company can purchase devices with monthly service fee which is paid only as long as the device is needed. This means that your company can offer appropriate devices for its employees even for shorter, project type of needs without commitment to long leasing times. This ensures your company the best TCO for the clients device investment and right devices for right users at the right time.

Our service is completely brand independent, and you choose units from market leading manufacturers that best suit your needs. Before client device delivery to the end user we configure it with agreed settings, image, etc. so, that the end user can just take the device in use and start to work with it.

All included:

- + Client devices
- + Preinstalled and configured – ready to use on delivery
- + Express replacement services (NBD) in case of hardware malfunction
- + Secure and sustainable management at EOL.
